

Notice pursuant to the GDPR 2016/679

Dear Client,

the General Data Protection Regulation (better known as GDPR 2016/679) has introduced numerous innovations on the matter of personal data processing, with regard to both individuals and businesses. At connexx S.r.l. we take the privacy of our customers very seriously and have accordingly adapted our procedures to the applicable regulations. Therefore, connexx S.r.l. is pleased to provide the following information:

Collection of the personal data of our B2B1 collaborators

As in this specific case, connexx S.r.l. may provide B2B1 services. Providing services to a business customer may require the collection by connexx S.r.l. of the personal data of the customer's employees. Such data may be collected to facilitate communications between connexx S.r.l. and the customer for the purposes of:

- administrative accounting
- urgent communications on the progress of the service
- customer satisfaction surveys
- any other purposes specifically provided in the contract

In particular, we may collect common personal data, such as names, e-mail addresses and telephone numbers, but will never collect data belonging to the special categories or relating to criminal convictions and offences for the above-mentioned purposes (Art. 9 and 10, GDPR).

The data collected by connexx S.r.l. may be recorded in (hard copy or digital) lists or by means of company management systems and will be used exclusively for the purposes indicated above by authorised processing personnel. Such data will be stored for the entire term of the contract between connexx S.r.l. and the customer, unless the latter, or the relevant data subject, requests the rectification, amendment or erasure of the data.

Therefore, irrespective of whether the service is provided in the capacity of connexx S.r.l. or as data processor, the contact details of connexx S.r.l. are given below, to be used for any personal data processing request to which connexx S.r.l. undertakes to reply within thirty days, in accordance with the applicable legislation.

Promotional and marketing activities

The customer's institutional e-mail channels, used to provide the service and for sending greetings and newsletters (which may be unsubscribed), can also be used, subject to your consent, to send advertising materials or commercial communications concerning new activities proposed by connexx S.r.l. Consent to the processing of the data collected for promotional purposes is optional and your refusal will have no effect on the provision of the agreed services.

Likewise, and subject to ad hoc and separate consent, connexx S.r.l. may transfer institutional e-mail and telephone contacts to third parties for direct marketing purposes. In this case, the third-party company, which is not a party to the agreement between the controller and the customer, may send commercial offers and advertising and promotional messages regarding its products and services.
